A PASTORAL WORD ON MARRIAGE, PART 1

Jesus answered, "Have you not read that he who created them from the beginning made them male and female, and said, 'Therefore a man shall leave his father and his mother and be joined to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh'? So they are no longer two but one flesh. What therefore God has joined together, let not man separate" (Matt. 19:4–6).

"If you love it so much, why don't you marry it?" That was a joke we used to say as kids. "If you love ice cream so much, why don't you marry it?" It meant nothing, but behind that joke lies a false assumption: marriage is about what I like.

When our culture assumed this, it was a quick slide down to so-called "gay marriage." For many the question became, "Should gays marry if they like each other so much?" not "Can gays marry at all?" A "should" and a "can" are two different things.

One might argue: "Everyone should root for the Huskers." That is moral statement, made because people can instead root for Michigan. They have that ability. But gay "marriage" is not a should question but a can question. It is not a question of morality (gasp!) but of possibility. Homosexual lust is the moral issue—we sinners can do that, though we shouldn't. But homosexual "marriage" is a question of possibility: Can two of the same sex be united in conjugal union? No, it is impossible. No marriage union arises. The two do not become "one flesh."

Nothing about marriage has changed, but now the law of the land no longer reflects reality. How did we get here? There are many factors, but consider this. Our culture has been saying for a long time now: "It's just sex." Jesus and the Bible, however, teach that it is through conjugal union (intercourse) that God unites man and woman together. The church upholds and honors sex for what it is in reality: God Himself does the uniting through this marital act so that a marriage arises when mutual, public consent is given to live as husband and wife (= "leaving father and mother"). In other words, sex is not a side-benefit to marriage; it is the appointed means through which God makes male and female into one flesh. Even outside of marriage sex is marital in character, though the two are sinning (fornicating) by refusing to take each other as husband and wife, preferring instead to misuse each other for selfishness and impurity.

The point is, sex is never just sex, nor is marriage about what I like or want. It is about God who joins, and I can no more be joined in this way to another man than I can to ice cream. To the joke, "If you love ice cream so much, why don't you marry it?" the answer is: because the only conjugal union that exists in creation is that of male and female.

It's not a should question, nor is it about what I want or like. It's about reality.

God's Word is a lamp unto our feet. Through it we see the universe in a more accurate way so that we do not unwittingly walk off a cliff or believe in things that don't exist. Gay "marriage" does not exist, no matter what courts or voters may say. Our society will now relearn the lesson we should have learned as toddlers, that saying "I want it!" does not change our reality.

In part two I will address what the church can and should do now as we live under laws that do not reflect reality. In the meantime, I recommend two resources above all. Our synod's website, www.lcms.org, and a Lutheran radio show that you can hear live or on-demand at issuesetc.org. There you can hear outstanding interviews with our Synodical President, scholars, lawyers, journalists, and more. I encourage you to check it out.

But I don't want to leave off here, so I will spoil the ending of part two: we preach repentance and faith. Reality has not changed. Marriage is not going anywhere, and neither is Jesus. He is the Savior of the gay, the straight, male, female, sinful preachers, and sinful hearers alike. We will repent for our own sins and point fellow sinners to the only place where there is truth, forgiveness, comfort, and hope: the cross of Jesus Christ, the Son of the living God.

Peace to you,

HEALTHY HABITS: TRANS FAT

Trans fat has been in the news recently because the FDA removed it from the list of foods "generally regarded as safe". It is to be phased out of the food supply within the next three years. Although authorities knew about its dangers several decades ago, they are just now getting around to doing something about it.

What is it? Trans fat forms when air is whipped into oils causing them to become more solid. Any food label that says it contains hydrogenated or partially hydrogenated oil has trans fat in it. Even foods marked with the signage "zero trans fat" still have it in the food. The government created a loophole for food companies and said if it is less than half a gram per serving it can be labeled as zero.

What does trans fat do to your body? It raises the bad LDL cholesterol and lowers the good HDL cholesterol. It clogs our arteries and fills them with a waxy sticky substance that eventually blocks them. It first was introduced into our foods in the 1950s and heart disease and strokes have skyrocketed since then.

Which foods have the most trans fat? Foods with the largest amounts of this dangerous fat are:

- Margarine and shortening
- Non-dairy coffee creamer
- Frozen pizza
- Cake mixes
- Canned frosting
- Many peanut butters
- Fast food
- Refrigerated dough, biscuits, and cinnamon rolls
- Microwave popcorn

Until the government gets its act together you can protect yourself and your family by reading food product labels. If it says "partially hydrogenated oil" or "hydrogenated oil" leave it on the shelf.

EVANGELISM REPORT

Church Pictorial Directory.

St. John is now preparing a new pictorial directory. The family pictures will be taken August 11-15. We are now asking for volunteers to help during that time. Please consider donating some time to this project.

The Life Touch representative will be here Tuesday, July 7 at 1:00 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall to give us the information to make our directory procedure successful. When you sign up to volunteer please keep July 7 available. At that time you can decide what part of the process will work for you.

Thank you all for your anticipated cooperation.

FROM THE ELDERS

Dear Fellow Believers,

Last month we were discussing how the LCMS sends its missionaries out into our sinful world to proclaim God's Word. Each missionary must secure their own funding before they can be deployed overseas. This can be a time of great anxiety for our missionaries. How do they go about getting enough money to keep them in the mission field for at least several years?!

This is where the Nebraska/Western Iowa District LCMS World Missions (aka. Mission Central) organization comes into play. Director Gary Thies and staff of 68 unpaid volunteers work tirelessly to connect individual supporters with individual missionaries. Gary travels all around the Iowa and Nebraska Districts speaking at churches and visiting with individuals in their homes about the opportunities available to them to share the Good News with a fallen world through our missionaries. Gary would say to us that the Lord is always looking for people who "Get it". And he would say to the anxious missionary, "the Lord ALWAYS provides at Just The Right Time".

The funding is what we call "restricted funds". This means the individual donor specifies the use of the funds. So the money St. John pledges for the support of Rev. Ahlman goes directly to him in total, with no portion of it used for other expenses/overheads. Gary and his staff manage these funds and see that they are sent on to each missionary in a timely manner. It should also be noted that Mission Central is solely supported by volunteers and donations without District or Synod funding. And Director Thies would like you to know that there are actually 69 volunteer unpaid, uncompensated employees at Mission Central.

Gary and his staff also support our missionaries when they return to the States on leave. Previously our missionaries spent much of their leave time, often just a few weeks, traveling to their various supporters around the District to report on their activities and to secure additional funding. Now they can travel to Mission Central in Mapleton IA, where they are provided lodging and meals and where they can meet with all their supporters all at one time. This gives our missionary and their family leave time for a much needed rest and visitation time with family and friends. Thousands of supporters travel to Mission Central each year to meet with their missionary and get a home cooked Lutheran Church Basement Ladies meal in the bargain.

I would encourage all of you to check out the Mission Central web site at www.missioncentral.us and see wonderful ways the our Lord is blessing our mission work.

Please continue to keep our missionaries Rev. Ahlman and Karen Tiedeman and their families in your prayers.

This is good, and pleases God our Savior who wants all men to be saved and to come to a knowledge of the truth.
